Members of the Publishers' Press.—The latest telegraphic news from all parts of the world are received by the Daily Times up to the hour of going to press.

Frank E. Langley, Publisher.

Entered at the Postoffice at Barre as Second Class Matter.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1906.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

It is exceptionally early, but the wise Vermont sugar maker will be prepared.

Tillman finds himself yoked with a peculiar partner, and vice versa, in this Hepburn rate bill championship.

It is said that Randolph is "threatened" with prosperity. We trust that Randolph will not dodge if the danger comes any nearer.

Hardwick's hat was just beneath that million dollar plum from Chicago and the contract for the Cook county courthouse dropped into it. Congratulations to Hardwick.

"The workmen of America" are to have a new novel dedicated to them. There are a good many workmen in America, but the prospects are that the publisher will not get them all to take a copy of the book, in spite of the bait.

And still there are times when the fire drill in schools will not prevent a panic. It was so in the military academy fire at Gambier, Ohio, Saturday, when the younger boys lost their heads and all recollection of their military training—and ran about wildly. But the case was extreme. The boys were awakened in the dead of night to find their lodging house in flames and themselves almost cut off by the fire. The sight of flames in such close proximity will cause the stoutest heart to quail, and it is really not to be wondered at that the students of the academy at Gambier forgot the drill which had been practiced for emergencies. Yet, while this was an exception to the rule, there are very many instances in which the fire drill have proved the only salvation.

HOW IT WOULD AFFECT THE NATIONAL LIFE.

If the section of the Armstrong insurance report, relating to the amount of business each company can do, should become operative in Vermont, the National Life Insurance company would have been able last year to write less than eight millions more in policies than it actually did in 1904. The Armstrong report would have the companies having between $100,000 and $300,000 in force limited to 25 per cent increase each year. This recommendation does not strike the smaller companies with so much force as it does the three largest concerns, the New York Life, the Equitable and the Mutual. It has been found that the New York Life would have to reduce its volume of new business about two-thirds of what it was in 1904, the Equitable one-half and the Mutual by nearly the same per cent. Agency business for these large concerns will take a severe slump if the Armstrong report is followed faithfully, whereas the smaller companies will not have their outlook darkened to a great degree, for the larger the company the greater restriction. For instance, the companies having between six hundred thousand and one billion insurance in force would be restricted.

Barre Savings Bank and Trust Co.

Another evidence of the confidence of the public in this Bank is the steady growth of business since organization twelve years ago, as shown by the following

"Many a man," said Uncle Allen Sparks, "deserves a Carnegie medal for going into society when he knows all about it."—Chicago Tribune.

The Walls of Babel.
The cyclopean walls of Babel were defensive works built of stones so great in size that even the most elaborate engineering appliances of the present day would be taxed to transport them. Some of these stones are sixty feet long by ten to twelve feet thick and of unknown width.

Fire Engines.
Fire engines were invented by Ctesibius 250 B. C. Pliny alludes to machines used to throw water on burning houses.

The Hornet.
The hornet is mentioned in Scripture (Exodus xxiii, 28). It is alluded to as a familiar pest, God promising to send hornets before the Israelites and there by drive out the nations of Canaan.

The Tuberosc.
The botanical name of the tuberose signifies many flowered, an allusion to the numerousness of the blossoms on a single stock. The common English name has reference to the tubular form of the blossom and the fragrance, which is considered to resemble that of the rose.

SIRENS AND SONS.

President Roosevelt shook hands with 2,052 persons at the annual White House reception on New Year's day.

Mr. Carnegie has made a conditional offer of $10,000 for the erection of a public library at Downpatrick, Ireland. Cortlandt Parker of Newark, N. J., who graduated seventy years ago at Yale, will be the guest of honor at the June commencement of Rutgers college, New Brunswick, N. J.

Representative Huff of Pennsylvania, Haskins of Vermont and Connor of New York so closely resemble one another that only their most intimate friends can distinguish them apart.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt has organized a private automobile factory in New York city, which is to be equipped with all the modern labor saving machinery, where cars for Mr. Vanderbilt's use only will be made.

Richard Seddon, whom Sir William Harcourt once congratulated on having "discovered the valuable secret of perpetual power," won at the general election in New Zealand. He is now in his thirteenth year of uninterrupted premiership.

M. Fallieres, whose name is pronounced as if spelt Fal-yeh, is sixty-five years of age and is already spoken of by Parisians as Loubet II, for his life is such that his policy is expected to be practically a continuation of ex-President Loubet's.

Lieutenant General Count Von Moltke, who has been appointed chief of the general staff of the German army, is like his uncle, the great field marshal of the same name, a tall man. He is a particular favorite with the Kaiser. He is married to a Countess Bethusy-Huc and has a family of six children.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

Rev. Washington Gladden, the well known author, is seventy years old. He is moderator of the National Council of Congregational Churches.

St. Paul's cathedral, London, was built by Sir Christopher Wren (1675-1710) at a cost of $748,000. It is 514 feet long, 296 feet wide and 356 feet high.

The Rev. Dr. A. W. Pitzer of Washington celebrated recently the thirty-eighth anniversary of his pastorate of the Central Presbyterian church in that city. He has been president of the Washington City Bible society for thirty years.

An appeal is made to Americans for funds to restore the tower of Purlieigh church, England, and hang a peal of bells in it. This is the church of which the Rev. Lawrence Washington, ancestor of George Washington, was rector from 1632 to 1643. The cost of the work will be $3,000, and it is expected that two-thirds of this sum will be raised in America.

FLORAL PECULIARITIES.

The night blooming jasmine shows no special charm through the day, but at the approach of evening its little candle shaped flowers present a picture of singular beauty, while they fill the whole air with their fragrance.

The mountain daisy is so sensitive to light, or rather, to the lack of it, that during the passage of a cloud it will close its petals. When closed it is exceedingly inconspicuous, its flower appearing like a small green bulb or curled up leaf.

One of the most singular peculiarities of the floral world is the evening primrose, which opens about 6 o'clock p. m. with an explosion not very loud and scarcely perceptible, but still quite formidable to any one who is watching the bud. It remains open all night.

A Gentle Hint.

On the dining room wall of an English seaside boarding house may be seen in large letters the words, "God hates gluttons."

The Prey of the Glacier.

The body of a dog found in the ice at the foot of the Rossford glacier has been identified by an old Alpine guide as that of an animal which he lost on the summit of the glacier forty-seven years ago.

FRIBBLES OF FASHION.

New Checked Cottons For Shirt Waists—A Gay Little Summer Coat. Bold designs rank equally with delicate patterns for hand embroidery on blouses.

Some remarkably good looking checked cottons are shown for shirt waists. Checks in blue and black and blue and green make attractive morning waists or whole shirt waist suits.

A gay little outing coat is of red, braided with flat red braid the exact shade of the cloth put on in military style.

Handsome Japanese coral is a novelty. It is susceptible of a high polish, but the color is not pink, but a pinkish white that is very beautiful.

Gold beads graduated in size, the largest, of course, in front, are lovely. As these beads are hollow, the cost of such a necklace is not high. Those who possess the gold beads worn by their grandmothers are most lucky. Judging by recent displays in the shops and a few examples on the stage, we seem to be threatened with a revival of the long earrings. These affairs are principally of pear shaped pearls, though occasionally there is seen a combination of diamonds and pearls. There are some earrings with three dangling stones.

BROWN STRAW HAT.

It is gloves, gloves everywhere, morning, noon and night, not the old fashioned, sensible gloves of our grandmothers, which ended at the wrist, but gloves with a long arm, gloves which never stop till they reach the elbow.

One of the latest models in the millinery world is illustrated in the cut. There is a suggestion of the old English walking hat in the shape, which is of brown rough straw trimmed with a Persian ermine scarf about the crown and caught in front with a dull gold buckle studded with rhinestones. A long brown plume starts from the left side and falls over the back of the hat.
